

Raashid Ahmed Luqmani BMedSci, BM, BS, DM, MRCP(UK), FRCPEd, FRCP

Professor of Rheumatology, Nuffield Department of Orthopaedics, Rheumatology and Musculoskeletal Science, University of Oxford, Oxford, UK and Consultant Rheumatologist, Nuffield Orthopaedic Centre, Oxford, UK

I graduated in medicine in Nottingham and trained in internal medicine in North Staffordshire before taking a research post in rheumatology in Southampton for my doctorate. I completed my rheumatology training in Birmingham and worked as a consultant rheumatologist in Edinburgh for 11 years prior to moving to Oxford in 2005. I have been Professor of Rheumatology in Oxford since 2011 and Head of the Clinical Department since 2020. I have a longstanding research interest in the systemic vasculitides and have published over 230 articles, with a focus on disease evaluation and outcomes on systemic vasculitis.